

Sugar

By Matt Marcii & Robbie Hutton

When we parted, we left it all alone
Now I'm back searching, like a dog for his bone
Believe me I know, that it's mutual
We just can't seem to let this go

What am I doing here?
Didn't we make it clear?
I shouldn't be anywhere, near you
Why don't we make amends?
Maybe we'll just stay friends
I shouldn't be anywhere, near you

Give it to me one more time,
Hit the button baby press rewind,
You were looking pretty cold that night,
As I walked by
Smoking all alone outside,
Hoping that I'll catch your eye,
Let me have it all tonight,
Give me that sugar.

Down the hallway, and through the door
I hear her call me, I've been here before
Temptations rising, my heartbeat pounds
What mistake will I be making now?

What am I doing here?
Didn't we make it clear?
I shouldn't be anywhere, near you
Why don't we make amends?
Maybe we'll just stay friends
I shouldn't be anywhere, near you

Give it to me one more time,
Hit the button baby press rewind,
You were looking pretty cold that night,
As I walked by
Smoking all alone outside,
Hoping that I catch your eye,
Let me have it all tonight,
give me that sugar.

Those seasons pass by
I can't seem to get you of my mind
I know you're no good for me
But I just can't help being so damn hooked (so)

Give it to me one more time,
Hit the button baby press rewind,
You were looking pretty cold that night,
As I walked by
Smoking all alone outside,
Hoping (that i'll) catch your eye,
Let me have it all tonight,
give me that sugar.
